Voters will decide tonight fate of school district budget

If last Thursday's informational meeting on the proposed $4.2 million school district budget was any indication, tonight's district budget meeting should be packed.

Last Thursday night over 150 people showed up at Telstar auditorium to ask questions and to listen to district administrators and directors explain why the assessments to the five towns of the district will jump 52 percent if the proposed budget is approved.

The audience was mostly composed of school personnel and students and was mostly in favor of the proposed budget. One student said after the meeting, "If they (the voters) cut the budget this year, they'll want to cut it again next year, and pretty soon Telstar will be just an empty shell."

The student seemed typical of many Telstar students and parents who were led to believe that any budget cuts would result in the cutting of existing programs.

Ann Roy, of Greenwood, who is a parent as well as a district employee, said, "I don't like to see high taxes, but I don't want to see cuts that will hurt the children of the district."

In fact, no one was willing to say where cuts would be made in the event a budget cut is voted on tonight. School officials declined to speculate, and so did those opposed to the $750,000 increase in the budget.

Lincoln Fiske, of East Bethel, was one of the proponents of trimming this increase—which he termed "an outrageous increase". He said, "I don't think it's our position to determine where the cuts should be made. I think we have to consider what we can afford."

He suggested cutting those programs not geared towards teaching the basics, "[especially] considering the results of the statewide eighth-grade testing, which was disgraceful."

Former school director Paul Hillquist, of Woodstock, charged that school officials were blaming the state mandates for forcing the budget increases when, in fact, the state did not mandate any of the three new positions in the budget.

Superintendent Dewaine Craig responded, "The state tells you what is needed. It doesn't tell you how to achieve it."

School officials had blamed $60,000 of the $750,000 assessment increase on state mandates. They had blamed decreased state funding for another $128,000 of the assessment increase. Of the remainder continued on Page Three GOODBYE BETHEL! Following commencement exercises Saturday morning, Gould graduates had happy greetings with parents and tearful farewells with classmates.

Prof. Rassias teaches a lesson to Gould grads

Dr. John Rassias, professor of French at Dartmouth College and Gould Academy's commencement speaker, made sure the graduating seniors learned one more lesson before they left the Bethel campus. He told the 84 graduates they would have to learn to communicate effectively if they wanted to succeed in the world.

He then made certain they followed along with his analysis of the secret to effective communication by having them repeat each step time after time. They loved the lesson, especially when Dr. Rassias threatened to wet them with a glass of water—but wound up pouring the water on his head.

His system for effective communication included knowing yourself, getting to know the other person, connecting, being spontaneous, and letting your emotions show.

Valedictorian Leah Garnett, stressed a similar theme of effective communications, wearing red sneakers and telling a fable to get people's attention. She said there was no such thing as foreign languages—just languages that we haven't taken the trouble to learn.

Skiway's business up 70%; $12 million expansion starts

With his best-ever season comfortably behind him, Sunday River Skiway Corp. president Les Otten is already in the midst of this summer's expansion, and already planning future years' growth.

According to recently tabulated figures, the skiway attracted a record 150,000 skiers this past season. The year before, the number was 95,000 skiers.

The increased number of skiers—and slightly higher lift ticket prices—resulted in an increase in revenue of $1.6 million, bringing the total revenue for the skiing half of the business to $4 million, according to Mr. Otten.

This does not take into account the real estate portion of the business, which has, in recent years, kept pace with skiing as a provider of revenue to the corporation. (Since the corporation operates on a fiscal year ending in July, total sales of real estate have still not been computed.)

However, Mr. Otten says sales have continued brisk. And he points out that the 152 condos expected to be built in this off-season have mostly been pre-sold.

There are already 244 condominium units at the skiway. The total number at the mountain for next season will be 396, if all plans come to fruition.

The condos presently under construction are 38 townhouse units at South Ridge, 64 units to complete the Fall Line buildings at South Ridge, and 16 units to complete the residential and commercial Merrill Brook building at South Ridge.

The only question mark for this season's building plan is a new development along the North Peak chairlift. This development will have three phases, with 36 units per phase. "If rates continue at their present rate, we'll probably break ground July first," Mr. Otten said of that continued on Page Three

Bradley found guilty of murder

Rafael Neil Bradley—the 19-year-old school dropout accused of murdering an East Stoneham man and stealing his pickup truck—was found guilty of the crimes last Friday at superior court in South Paris. The jury deliberated less than two hours in arriving at its decision.

One of the jurors—Tim Akers, of Bethel—said afterward there was no doubt in anyone's mind that Bradley, originally from Presque Isle, but most recently living in North Waterford with his father and younger brother, committed murder. "Everybody was pretty definite," he said.

The defense had tried to plant a seed of doubt into the jury's mind, claiming that the killing was done in self-defense. Mr. Bradley, who testified for over an hour in his own behalf, claimed that the 31-year-old victim had first fired at him with a 30.06 rifle he kept in the truck. Only in self-defense did he, Bradley, then open fire on Mr. Stevens with his own .22 caliber pistol, killing the man.

The jury didn't buy the story. Not only were no 30.06 shell casings found at the scene (whereas .22 shell casings were found), but, as juror Akers said, "It just seemed totally out of character for Mr. Stevens."

The prosecution had, over the four days of the trial, established the fact that Mr. Stevens was a good-natured man. In fact, it was his good nature that probably led to his murder.

He had, on occasion, given a lift to young Bradley as he, Stevens, drove to continued on Page Three

County jail could take additional state prisoners

Gov. Joseph Brennan this week places before the Legislature his proposal to relieve overcrowding in the state prison by allowing prisoners serving time for non-violent crimes to serve their sentences in county jails. The proposal has the qualified blessing of the Oxford County Commissioners.

The qualification concerns the question of medical treatment. County prisoners are treated at county expense by private doctors, and the commissioners would not want to have to foot the medical bills for state prisoners as well.

Aside from that problem, which Commissioner Norman Ferguson Jr., of Hanover, expects to be cleared up, the county could accommodate additional state prisoners. In fact, he said, it might not be a bad idea for the county, as well as for the state. "I suspect we could make a little money on it," he said.

The county already makes money by housing state prisoners finishing up the last few months of their sentences. The county bills the state $40 a day, Mr. Ferguson, said, whereas the incremental cost for having one more prisoner in the jail is only about $4 a day. The incremental cost would mainly be the cost of food, since other costs—such as staffing, electricity, etc.—would be incurred by the jail with or without the extra prisoner or two.

According to jail officials, the jail normally runs nearly full, especially on weekends when OUI offenders take up a lot of space. However, if the OUI visitors are discounted, there would be room for a few extra state prisoners, officials say. "I think we could put more prisoners in," Commissioner Ferguson said.

He added that the Legislature was likely to set a statewide fee for housing prisoners in county jails. Presently, each county can charge whatever fee it wishes. Mr. Ferguson said the Legislature is considering a fee of $34 a day, which would be fine with the commissioners.

He said chances of passage of the governor's proposal seemed good. "I think the legislation will be successful."

A moose visited the Gould campus early Tuesday afternoon. With some urging it departed in the direction of Mill Brook.

MSAD #44 Directors' meeting

The SAD #44 Board of Directors met in regular session in the library at Telstar Regional High School on Monday evening of this week.

Following an executive session, the board approved the re-admission to school of a 14-year-old Telstar student who had been on suspension due to a third offense under the smoking policy.

Any action concerning a request by a student to march with classmates at graduation was tabled until the June 9 meeting of the board. The student is ¾ of a credit shy of the 20 required for graduation but has enrolled in the Telstar Summer School to remedy the deficiency.

The following were approved as substitute teachers: Lisa Friedlander of Newry, and Helen Manjourides of Woodstock.

The directors approved the issuance of an annual salary agreement for the continued on Page Three

West Paris selectmen queried on roads

State Senator R. Donald Twitchell of Norway and several local citizens attended the West Paris Selectmen's meeting last Thursday night to voice their concerns about the abandonment of a road off the Tuell Town Road. The road, which meets the Forbes Road at the Ellingwood Road intersection, was declared abandoned by the selectmen at their April 10 meeting. Selectman Duane Abbott suggested that selectmen inspect the road this week and review their decision.

The board also signed warrants for the special and primary elections on June 10. They named Town Clerk Gwendolyn Ellingwood as warden for the election, and voted to open the polls at 9 a.m.

Finally, Ray Thurston asked the selectmen about the possibility of the town re-opening the Frank Littlehale Road. The road was closed at the 1984 town meeting. Mr. Thurston was given a copy of the 1984 town warrant and a copy of the procedure for calling a special town meeting.

MEETING HOUSE SOCIETY TO MEET JUNE 2

The annual meeting of the Middle Intervale Meeting House Society will be held Monday, June 2. This is the first meeting of the year and it is hoped that all members and friends of the society will be present. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in the meeting house.

Questions unanswered on budget

The informational meeting held by school district authorities last Thursday night to shed light on the proposed $4.2 million budget and its 52 percent increase in local assessments failed to provide the answers people were seeking.

Louise Chapman, a teacher from Greenwood, posed one of the major questions: "If there is a cut, can someone on the board tell me—and tell all these people here—where the cuts will be made. Because that's what we came here to find out."

Board member Eva Twitchell said it would not be possible to give an answer to that question without more research. Nevertheless, a handout distributed by district authorities at the meeting stated: "If the proposed FY '87 expenditure budget were to be cut by $400,000 [as suggested by district selectmen], it could mean cuts in... Creative & Talented Teacher and Program... Athletic and Co-Curricular Activities and Programs... (and many more)."

The bottom line was that Ms. Chapman's question was not answered. Board Chairman Darline Hall said lack of state support was the cause of the budget crunch this year. "The biggest part of our problem is the problem of [state] funding."

Karen Bean, of Bethel, then asked why the district was withholding over $100,000 in state funds from the budget. The answer was that it was being held in reserve for next year to help pay for a state-mandated raise for teachers.

The bottom line was that there was no explanation for why the proposed budget document claims local assessments are going up drastically because state subsidies are decreasing by $128,000 when—in fact—there is $103,000 in state money that is not even mentioned in the budget document.

A number of people asked, in one way or another, how much local taxes would be going up as a result of the 52 percent increase in local assessments. School officials said the increases would be only about half of what the selectmen of the towns had claimed they would be. The explanation was that the tax year of the towns will be half over by the time the tax year of the district begins.

That explanation misses the mark. Since there are 12 months in a calendar year or a tax year, it doesn't matter how you break up the 12 months. If the school assessment to a town is going to cause that town's taxes to go up by 30 percent, that increase will be paid by the taxpayers—whether in one tax period or two.

A number of board members stated that the reason the SAD #44 assessments were jumping so high was because other school districts already are supporting their schools at higher budget levels, and SAD #44 is therefore playing a game of catch-up.

This seems to be a less-than-valid view. Consider the amounts SAD #44 towns pay for their schools in relation to the amounts these towns pay for town government. Then compare that with towns in SAD #17 and SAD #61.

Town	Municipal Budget	School Assessment	Assessment as % of municipal budget
Andover	$229,281	$588,785	257%
Bethel	$781,707	$708,192	91%
Greenwood	$172,007	$305,899	178%
Newry	$112,484	$204,294	181%
Woodstock	$229,486	$363,865	159%
Norway	$1,020,033	$813,799	80%
West Paris	$171,525	$156,925	91%
Bridgton	$1,500,331	$1,698,457	113%

From the above figures, it seems quite clear that, SAD #44 residents generally pay more for their schools than residents in SAD #17 or SAD #61. West Paris and Woodstock would be especially good comparative examples, since they're both about the same size.

West Paris residents will be paying $156,925 for their schools this coming year. That is 91 percent of what they will be paying for their municipal budget. Woodstock residents, on the other hand, will be paying $363,865 for schools this coming year, if the proposed budget is approved—more than double the amount to be paid by their West Paris counterparts.

There is no reason for district taxpayers to tax themselves into oblivion just because school authorities didn't take into account the impact their budget would have on local assessments.

Three things should be done at the district budget meeting tonight: the $103,000 in state money that the school authorities want to sit on should be committed to the budget this year; increases in staff and programs and improvements in existing plant and curricula should all be postponed; students, parents and teachers should be told unequivocally that the budget cuts will not touch existing programs.

The budget must be cut—not because the proposals for new programs are not worthwhile, but simply because they are not affordable at this time.

From the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

The board of directors of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce met Tuesday morning at Bethel Furniture Stock.

The Maine Lung Association will be having a bikeathon starting on Friday, June 20. The route is from the Sunday River ski area to the sea. The question came up, if anyone needs lodging, would the inns be willing to give a 10 percent discount? If anyone is, please contact Robin Zinchuk at the chamber office.

The chamber is gathering photographs to have at a New England Display being set up June 23 at Rockefeller Center in New York City.

This Friday, May 30, is the annual banquet. Anyone wanting last minute reservations may do so by contacting the Bethel Inn. At that time the chamber's new board of directors will be announced.

The Old Time American Circus has contacted the chamber relative to putting on a show June 29 and 30. It would be a great fund-raiser, but before the chamber makes any further commitments it will do some checking around. The standing of this project will be announced as soon as possible.

The chamber's board of directors will meet next Tuesday, June 2, at 7:30 a.m. at the Bethel Furniture Stock. All are welcome.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Our five-town community will be hurt by any school budget adopted tonight (Wednesday, May 28)... hurt financially, hurt educationally, or both.

You [the voter] can help to limit this hurt by learning more tonight of the well-founded concerns of area selectmen and of the school directors, and by defining gray when you hear black and white. Wars may be won by assembling the most troops, but that's not how good decisions are made. You need not be a pawn for either side (both of which are looking out for what you elected them for, but perhaps too zealously).

Your open mind and common sense can permit a school budget less hurtful to your wallet than the school directors' proposal. By helping shape a compromise you can assure that while the community must inevitably suffer tonight (financially, educationally, or both), the community spirit need not. We will all lose something important if we come out of tonight's meeting feeling we won and they lost.

Another year representatives of our selectmen can, and I think will, do important things they didn't do this year: (1) Attend the school directors' meetings while the directors are wrestling with the budget; (2) Figure out just how they could cut a specific amount of money. Only the school directors can determine what to cut, by law; but until you [the voter] take your school budget book and see what would be lost if you could choose, you can't be sure you'd cut $400,000. Honestly! Try it.

I have tried and failed. So have some other thinking people who would like to see a $400,000 cut. The selectmen's group declined to try. I've only heard one person say he knows how to do it: Paul Hillquist. You deserve to be shown how it can be done, in black and white. There's not that much fat, and the muscle we're cutting into may be our children's, if we go too far.

Unless we come up with something better tonight, I suggest we raise $700,000 under Article VI. Not because it's half way between the recommendations of some school directors and some selectmen, but because it will hurt our community less than either of their proposals, everything considered.

Ted Chadbourne
Bethel

To the Editor:

In reference to the SAD #44 proposed budget and the ability of our taxpayers to pay such an increase:

Aside from comments that I have made about "quality of education for our invested dollar," nobody, to my knowledge, has made any derogatory statements about the administration, our elected school board members, school teachers, or employees of the district. I have attended all the meetings.

Tuesday night May 20, at our regular selectmen's meeting in Woodstock, Mr. Dewaine Craig called and accused the Woodstock selectmen of telling lies to the taxpayers. We have shown that the proposed dollar increase per $10,000 dollar assessed valuation in one year, is sixty dollars out of the pocket regardless of when it is taken during that year.

Mr. Craig should not be accusing the selectmen of lying, we have no reason to do so. We were voted into office to represent the people and to inform them of many situations that will effect their tax obligations. We do that at town meetings on a regular basis, that's our job. The school board, on the other hand, should not be making accusations about the selectmen either, their job is to represent the people in the district. The teachers and other employees should not be resorting to propaganda about the intentions of the selectmen, their job is to educate our children.

As a selectmen I have not proposed any cuts in curriculum or programs. I am recommending a cut to the increase in the budget. I was told that, "a six percent increase would maintain the same or similar programs." However, I do not understand "similar programs," when all I hear is state mandates. Mandates are laws that are handed down by legislation. The selectmen have gotten together and said, "we cannot afford the increase that this budget is demanding." Common sense tells me that I cannot have a Cadillac or Mercedes when my pocketbook can only afford a Ford, Chevrolet or a used car.

It is unfortunate that political mud-slinging and name calling has come to the home scene on this issue. The political scene belongs in Augusta and so do those who want to deal with it.

Finally, I would like to thank the administration for not correcting the $4,000 error on page 39 of the 1986 Annual Report. There are 59 figures on this page, 30 of them are wrong, which makes less than 50 percent right, nothing political intended just my "Native Intelligence" coming out.

To the Editor:

The Bethel Historical Society has lost two valued members with the deaths this week of James Dyce Alger and W. Albert Skillings.

Jim Alger, a graduate of Gould Academy (and later trustee and benefactor) and West Point, served this nation well through a long and distinguished military career. He also was immensely interested in this area of Maine and its people. He and his wife, Consuelo, supported a number of projects and organizations in the greater Bethel area, many of which were historical in nature. Among them was the Bethel Historical Society, which will always be grateful for important donations of furnishings, money and space. He was a life member of the society and always attended monthly meetings when in residence at the former Major Gideon Hastings house, on Broad Street. He also was very active in the society's investment committee and was a ready volunteer for roles at special events of the society. I will greatly miss his humor, deep interest in the society and genuine concern for preserving the history and architectural heritage of this area for future generations.

Albert Skillings was also a very special historical society member. It is hard to know where to begin when discussing him, since he has been such an important part of life during my 12 years as director of the society. Rarely did a week go

To the Editor:

The problem with voting on the 1986-87 MSAD #44 Budget isn't whether or not 18 percent is too big an increase, but rather, the fact that most voters cannot make an informed vote, based on the budget as presented.

There are definitely wish-list items in the budget, and there are definitely necessary items in the budget.

But where in the budget? Under terms like "Student Support Services," "Mechanical Purchases," "Supplies," and "General Supplies," who is to know? The MSAD #44 administrators certainly aren't telling us!

I urge you to go to the Annual Budget Meeting (on Wednesday, May 28) and ask questions, and demand answers.

You may be surprised at the ability, or lack of ability for MSAD #44 administrators to provide the real answers.

He was invariably willing to oblige, and I was always amazed at his recall of information gained so long ago and its accuracy when checked with other sources. He was the subject of a large number of oral history projects, and I am thankful that I got him to record a number of hours of discussion relating to his life and the changes he had experienced. One of the highlights of the society's work with area schools has been Albert's share his knowledge with students about life in the past, and he held their rapt attention—a rare feat to say the least. He was a blacksmith at several Sudbury Canada Days and received much attention for his skill at the forge during Indian Raid '81. He helped the society identify countless photographs in its collection and frequently provided enlightenment on some historical question at one of the society's monthly meetings.

of the assessment increase, the largest cause was the salary and benefit increases to teachers, administrators and other staff.

Mr. Hillquist claimed he was able to trim $400,000 from the budget without touching teachers' salaries or programs. He did not elaborate, however.

Karen Bean, of Bethel, asked why the revenue side of the budget did not include $103,000 the state is giving the district for teachers' salaries.

Mr. Craig responded that the money was part of a $150,000 block grant given the district for raising teacher salaries to a minimum of $15,500 in fiscal 1988. He said the teachers and school directors decided to use only $55,000 of the grant in this coming year's budget, banking the remainder for the following year. "I think the negotiators were using good foresight," he said.

Bill Cousins, of Bethel, asked the board members to declare whether they support the proposed budget. He noted that at an earlier board meeting, a straw vote showed 11 in favor and 5 opposed. Thursday night, all the directors said they supported the proposed budget. Four directors were absent.

While the informational meeting was taking place in the auditorium, an earlier-scheduled public meeting on the budget was being held in Woodstock. Most of the people there expressed concern about the expected tax bill increases.

SAD #44 BOARD MEETS

1986-87 school year to Harry Davis. Mr. Davis is currently on second probationary contract status.

The board voted to issue second probationary contracts for the 1986-87 school year to the following personnel currently on first probationary contract status: Kathy Bugbee, Louise Chapman, Melanie Ellsworth, Wendy Ford, Susan Kane, Steven Keane, Jean McGuire, E. Jane Scott, Mary Seaman, David Walton, and Nancy Harlow.

Authorization was granted the superintendent of schools to borrow up to $30,000, for a period not to exceed 90 days, to cover Woodstock building project expenditures pending the bond anticipation note.

The directors approved "Woodstock School" as the name for the new elementary facility soon to be built on Rumford Avenue, Bryant Pond.

Before the close of the meeting there was general discussion of the upcoming SAD #44 District Budget Meeting, Wednesday, May 28, at 7 p.m. in the Telstar Auditorium.

Board member Sheryl Wilbur of Woodstock was not present at the Monday session.

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the SAD #44 board will be Monday, June 9, at 7:30 p.m. in the library at Telstar Regional High School.

Tri-Town Rescue

The Every Member Canvass is continuing through the end of May. The proceeds of this fund-raising drive are for the new ambulance barn at Trap Corner. Life capsules are being distributed for the glove compartment or the refrigerator. These will help the ambulance service, if the medical information is correctly filled out.

Four Tri-Town members are taking the EMT refresher course at Ledgeview Monday and Thursday nights.

Joanne Lee, head of Tri-County EMS, led the training meeting Tuesday night on mass casualty with slides describing how to classify and organize a larger disaster into a manageable situation. The key word was triage—categorizing patients into the severity of injury.

The next auxiliary meeting is June 2 at 7 p.m. at the West Paris branch of the Bethel Savings Bank. The West Paris Alumni banquet will be planned.

MOLLOCKETT MIXERS TO MEET

Mollockett Mixers Square Dance Club will hold their 15th anniversary square dance on Saturday, May 31, at the Rumford Junior/Senior High School. This will be a mainstream dance with Terry Campbell calling with Craig Mayo and Joe Perham, humorist. Wally Weeks will be cueing the rounds. This will be an ice cream social.

CARD OF THANKS

I want to thank my friends, relatives and neighbors for all the cards and flowers, also the doctors and nurses while I was confined in the hospital. A special thanks to Clayton and Norma for their care and love at their home where I am recuperating, and thanks to Ellie for checking on me.

Sincerely,
Elsie Fuller

CONVICTED MURDERER RAFAEL NEIL BRADLEY JR. is escorted, handcuffed, into the courthouse last week by Oxford County Sheriff Alton Howe.

BRADLEY FOUND GUILTY

his job in South Paris—a trip he regularly made at 6:30 a.m. It was apparently with the intention of getting a lift with Mr. Stevens that Bradley told his 15-year-old girlfriend to wake him early that fateful Friday morning, Nov. 15, 1985.

Placing the .22-caliber pistol, which an adult purchased for him at the Norway Lake Trading Post, in the belt of his pants, young Bradley went out to Rte. 118 to catch a ride and, as he told his girlfriend, get them a vehicle so that they could flee to Florida. (Mr. Bradley wanted to get away from the area because he had missed a court appearance Nov. 12 on two other robbery charges.)

When Mr. Stevens didn't return home that evening, his wife, Robin Stevens, notified authorities. His body was found two days later, under a large pine tree at the edge of a field in Oxford. His truck—and Bradley, his girlfriend and another juvenile girl—were found in Sanford, Fla., two days after the body was found.

Sgt. Jim Miclon, of the Oxford County Sheriff's Department, conducted the investigation, together with Det. John Cormier Jr., of the Maine State Police. He said after the trial, "I really didn't have any doubts [that Bradley would be convicted]."

Sgt. Miclon credited the state's ballistics expert with presenting "powerful testimony" to the jury. "So did Dr. Roy."

Dr. Donald Roy, deputy medical examiner for the State of Maine, performed the autopsy on the victim's body and testified in grim detail about the four bullet wounds and other bruises. Neither the widow of the victim, nor the father of the victim, stayed for that portion of the trial.

(The father and brother of the defendant were not in court except when the brother had to testify about what the defendant had told him of the killing soon after it occurred. He also testified that he saw no signs of the blow to the head the defendant claimed was administered by the victim prior to the shooting.)

Sgt. Miclon credited court-appointed defense counsel David Whittier with doing a good job. "Whittier did the best he could, but there was nothing there." He also credited prosecutors Nick Gess and Tom Goodwin, from the attorney general's office, with building a very tight web of testimony.

Juror Tim Akers agreed, saying there was no single bit of testimony that was overpowering, but the sum of the parts was. "There wasn't really one thing, [just] the whole story together."

Nevertheless, he said, there was still some doubt as to details. "Everyone was definitely sure in his own mind he [Bradley] was guilty, but we felt we never knew for sure what happened... it was a strange case."

Mr. Akers said he didn't like the idea of sitting in judgment on someone, but felt it was his duty. He added, "Someone said they were glad we didn't have the death penalty because that would make it that much harder [to arrive at a guilty verdict]."

Following the announcement of the verdict, Mr. Bradley was taken back to his one-man cell at the county jail adjacent to the courthouse. He was driven the 50 yards in a car—the same way he was brought over to court.

Being found guilty of murder, Mr. Bradley faces a sentence of from 25 years to life. No date has yet been set for sentencing, but court officials say it should be in about three weeks, following a pre-sentencing report on the murderer.

The judge in the case is Justice Carl Bradford.

SKIWAY'S BUSINESS UP 70%

development. Should sales slack off, groundbreaking for that development will be put on hold.

In order to provide additional skiable terrain for the additional skiers coming to the mountain, Mr. Otten is developing slopes on Spruce Peak—between Barker Mountain and North Peak.

Two triple chairs will service the 1700-foot Spruce Peak. A lower lift will relieve congestion on the South Ridge double chair, while an upper lift will provide access to the five intermediate trails being placed on Spruce Peak. This will bring the total number of trails at the skiway to over 40.

Snowmaking will be provided on all the new trails.

It was abundant snowmaking that helped Sunday River to have its best season ever, Mr. Otten is quick to point out. In fact, after closing a week earlier, the skiway opened again May 1 and sold about two dozen tickets to skiers who were still able to ski top to bottom.

In each of the past two off-seasons, the expansion programs have cost about $6 million per season. This off-season, the price tag is put at $12 million. This breaks down to $8.5 million for real estate development and $3.5 million for skiing improvements. Mr. Otten said a short-term loan from Casco Northern Bank will pay for the latter. As for the former, "The real estate pays for itself," he noted. Looking further into the future, Mr. Otten sees the possibility for more trails and more condos. But first, he says, he has to convince some doubters that the skiway is good for the area. "There's finally an alternative to the wood industry that doesn't pollute," he notes that at the height of the ski season, Sunday River Skiway Corp. was providing employment to 305 area people—a new record for the skiway, and a record for any local employer.

Some Newry and Bethel residents have complained that the skiway is bringing too many new people into the area, even if only as temporary visitors. Some have complained that all the building activity is creating a shortage of carpenters, while others have complained that all the real estate activity is inflating local real estate prices, thus making it more costly for local people to build or buy a home or lot.

But it is the complaint about pollution coming from the skiway that causes Mr. Otten the greatest consternation. In order to keep current on any pollution coming from developments on the mountain, Mr. Otten contracts with the state Department of Human Resources to monitor the streams and ponds around the skiway. Last season's water-purity test results, from January and February

Agnes Gray School

By MARTA CLEMENTS

End-of-year activities are upon us. The kindergarten and first grade have been busy with two grand productions. The kindergarten program is called "The Circus" and was presented to the school May 27. The first grade is preparing a musical, called "The Day the Sky Fell." No date has yet been set for the presentation.

Grade 2 has just finished a social studies unit on farm life, and each student has made a "peep show" of a farmyard scene. Grade 3 has finished the CAP unit (Children Are People) and is planning a celebration party.

Grade 4 went to Augusta May 22 to tour the State House and the State Museum. This is an annual trip, as all fourth-graders are required to visit.

Grade 5 is wrapping up the year with a social studies project on United States presidents. Research, reports, and memorizing are keeping everyone on his or her toes—including the teacher.

On June 3, the Agnes Gray School 6th-graders will be hosting the 8th-graders from Waterford in a musical exchange. A concert will be presented in the gym at 1 p.m.

Our end-of-the-year field day is planned for June 9 and school is scheduled to end June 12. Look for at least one more column of end-of-the-year activities.

THESE HEAD START STUDENTS WILL BE THE LOSERS if the program cannot find liability insurance. Despite their perfect record, insurance companies do not want to offer liability coverage for the four Oxford County centers for fear of possible lawsuits. The group enjoying lunch, above, is (clockwise from the teacher): Donna Richards (head instructor), Jeff Chandler, Erin Riley, Tracey Gibbs and Christie Paradis.

Head Start centers can't get insurance

Local Head Start centers cannot obtain liability insurance and their current coverage expires next month.

"Unfortunately, our program—just the same as other programs around the country—is losing our liability insurance," the overseer of the Head Start program in Oxford County told The Citizen.

Debbie Damon, the director of children's services with Oxford County Community Services, said the escalation of liability insurance costs at preschools and day care centers nationwide is making insurance companies hesitant about insuring such facilities.

She finds this situation especially galling because the four centers in Oxford County—in Rumford, Norway, Oxford and West Bethel—have never had a single suit filed against them. "The only claim that's ever been filed was when a child was hurt on the playground," Ms. Damon said. The claim was simply for reimbursement of medical expenses, she explained.

Ms. Damon said she had been paying $1,200 annually to cover all four centers with liability insurance until a year ago. Then the insurance company, The Hartford Group, terminated the policy and declined to renew it.

A new policy was obtained from Penn-American Insurance, for $4,600 annually. The new policy did not contain death liability coverage, however.

Now Penn-American officials say they will not continue the coverage after June 30, and OCCS' local insurance agency has not been able to find a company willing to take over the policy.

In desperation OCCS turned to the state—the Maine Insurance Commission. Officials there said they might be able to find coverage for the Oxford County Head Start centers, Ms. Damon reports. But it will be costly.

If it can be obtained, it will cost $6,500 a year, she said. That's for just 125 children.

The Youth Group of the Universalist Church and their leaders, Marta Clements, and Bob Kircher climbed Berry's Ledge on Sunday. They enjoyed a cookout of hot dogs. Marshmallows were also toasted. The view from there is nature's splendid display of spring greenery. On June 1 at 6 p.m. will be the next meeting at the church.

West Paris Historical Society met on Monday, May 19, with a pot luck supper preceding the meeting. Members are reminded to bring in pictures that might be used in our next year's society calendar. It was also decided to start a scrapbook of newspaper articles pertaining to West Paris activities and interests. Connie Bacon was appointed to be in charge of this endeavor. After the meeting we were entertained by Francis Vail, Jr., of Stoneham (an assistant professor of archaeology at Baker Academy in Slab City). He was the discoverer of the famous Vail Site of Indian Artifacts at Aziscoos Lake. This Indian site existed 11,000 years ago. We also learned of his findings of amethyst and the experiences he had at Deer Hill. The next meeting will be at Deer Hill. The picnic area on June 16 at 6 p.m. Everyone is to bring their own supper to cook or not as they please.

Louise Coffin has returned from a 11 day trip as far south as Savannah, Ga., traveling over 3,100 miles. She was in the company of Bertha Flanders, Frances Farnum and Evelyn Hilborn. They visited many interesting places, among them being the Eastern Star Temple in Washington, D.C.

Those attending the East Star Grand Chapter session in Lewiston on Monday and Tuesday were Louise Coffin, Rupert and Gladys Ellingwood, Warren and Susie Abbott and June Abbott.

New consignment shop opens in West Paris

A new business has opened on Main Street in West Paris—The White Elephant Consignment Shop. The shop is open seven days a week, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. The phone number is 874-3240.

Debbie Walsh is the owner and operator of the new shop. Husband Mike is a real estate salesman. He sees the shop as a needed establishment, especially for people looking to furnish a home inexpensively.

For items too bulky to be easily brought to the shop, there is a bulletin board listing items for sale—and items that people are looking for. The shop, for a small percentage, brings buyer and seller together.

The shop is willing to buy the entire contents of a house or garage in cases where a person is moving.

May, a time so breath-takingly innocent, how I enjoyed it early this morning! "Seanymp" fastened among the grasses, I pushed into the water at 6:10. Fog near the surface shadowed the opposite shore, as I started to row.

From the trees there were birds galore. With the first brightening of the eastern sky there arose their faint chirpings and callings, scattered at first, but gradually increasing in volume, until soon they were giving a chorus.

In a short time the swallows were dipping; kissing dimples into the water. Black birds zoomed toward me with their scarlet shoulders ablaze.

A parade of ducks were puddling and feeding in the cove and a long legged blue heron was standing like a solemn sentinel on shore.

The sun crawled slowly up the sky and rested on top of Noyes Mountain. There was a subtle change; a mellower charm. Became over the morning land. It was alive with entrancing sights, sounds, and smells.

I rowed up pond and stopped to fish along the way.

I notice a V shaped ripple just beyond me, the first muskrat I had seen this year.

I continued to fish and returned home in just over one and one half hours. A good start for the day.

Ardell and Betty Hayes, Auburn, Wallace Hayes, Local, visited Doris Hayes on Saturday.

The Boy Scouts camped over the weekend "down on the meadow".

OPEN WEEKDAYS 7a.m.-5p.m.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

Anyone interested in attending the Faye Taylor Memorial Art Show is reminded that it will be held on Saturday, May 31, in the Dr. Moses Mason House meeting room, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

An open house will be held Sunday, June 1, from 2 to 4 p.m., to commemorate the 17th birthday of Dr. Moses Mason (born June 2, 1789) and the 20th anniversary of the society's founding (May 31, 1966). Refreshments and various craft demonstrations will be featured. Society Director Stanley R. Howe will present a slide show on the 20 years of the Bethel Historical Society. An exhibit on the society's 20 years will also be featured. Anyone wishing further information should call the society, at 824-2908.

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the monthly meeting will be June 5, beginning at 7:30 p.m., in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House. Featured during the program portion of the meeting will be the Bicentennial Dancers of the Mt. Washington Valley and Fryeburg. Under the direction of Brownlow L. Thompson, of Conway, N.H., the dancers will present a program of 18th century dances and will be in the costume of the colonial and revolutionary periods.

This group, formed in 1974, is largely composed of retired couples. For the nation's bicentennial, in 1976, they decided to costume themselves and perform the contra dances of the period. After 1976 they decided to continue the presentation of the history of social dancing. A narrative accompanies each program, providing the background, customs, famous balls and interesting history of the era.

The group's dancing master, Brownlow L. Thompson, has been a caller and teacher of dancing for more than 32 years. He has researched the music and history of the period as well as the patterns and styles of dancing them. Because there is a variation in the development of social dancing in American dancing, he has limited these programs to northern New England.

The society's garden and grounds committee met this week and planned the gardening activities for the coming season.

The society's long-range planning committee met last week and discussed various options for the future. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, June 3, in the Eva Bean Research Room, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Society members and friends with an Otisfield connection may be interested to learn that the reprint of William S.

By OLIVE DAVIS

Vera Buck was in Rumford and Dixfield recently where she visited a relative in the nursing home there. She reported a heavy thundershower there Monday night which set some grass fires.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Cushman from Winthrop were in this area on their motorcycles calling on Esther and Olive Davis Monday afternoon.

A house to house canvass for the Tri-Town Ambulance Service is being conducted in town. Donations toward the ambulance storage building are being solicited.

Mrs. Helen Chute called on Olive Davis Sunday afternoon. Beatrice Wyman brought her over. Two other ladies came with them.

Dorene Benson and Deven called on Esther Davis and Olive. They were working on funds for the Tri-Town Ambulance Service.

Lettie Brooks took Olive Davis and three West Paris ladies to the Retired Teachers meeting at the Oxford Legion Home Saturday. Plants were on sale to add to the scholarship money that is given by this group each year.

On Thursday Esther was busy with a sale for the Good Will of the Universalist Church.

Spurr's "A History of Otisfield, Maine" can still be obtained by writing Barbara Kane, RR #1, Oxford, Maine. 04270.

New society members at the patron level this week are John K. and Judy B. Shorb, of Bethel.

The spring issue of the "Bethel Courier" is expected to be mailed this week. Anyone wishing a complimentary copy should notify the society office.

As the summer issue of the "Courier" will deal with the history of Gould Academy, to commemorate the institution's 150th anniversary, anecdotes relating to life at the academy are being sought for possible inclusion. Anyone connected with Gould who has a favorite memory that he or she is willing to share should send it to the society, at P.O. Box 12, Bethel, Maine 04217.

There also will be photographs included in this issue, so anyone with an unusual Gould photo is requested to let the society know. It may also be used in the Gould Academy exhibit, which will be in place from July 1 through the fall, in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House.

High Street West Paris

By VIVA WHITMAN

Rather a dull cloudy morning, Tuesday. Don't know what the weather will do before the day is over. Looks like rain but the weather changes it's mind as fast as anyone can so we will just have to wait and see what happens. Our beautiful finches that have come to feed lately still come and we have had a visit from some rose breasted grosbeaks. Never saw any of them before and they are so pretty. Many other birds around and I like to watch to see what new ones I can spot in the woods and field areas around us. Russell hasn't had any blue birds come to the houses he built and put up but has a nest in one and has found chickadees there. Said he couldn't see whether there were any eggs or not but the chickadees didn't come out when he rapped on the side of the box, he expected there might be eggs she was sitting as she flew when he opened the box.

I love the spring flowers blooming around the countryside and watch to see all of them I can whenever we go riding but I can't say I appreciate the pollen that is flying around. My nose runs and I cough and feel like I had a real bad cold but know it is allergies. Not much way to screen the pollen out of the air so just hope it doesn't last too long and I get a break before the Fall pollen starts.

Russell and Peggy had good eye tests last week when we went to Lewiston.

The next day, Russell was busy raking the fields above the garden spot and it kept him busy all day. I have sewed every minute I could trying to get the dresses done for my granddaughters' birthdays. It takes time and my fingers aren't as nimble as they used to be so takes me longer to accomplish what I want to do.

Peggy had to make a trip to her doctor one day last week. We all seem to have trouble with poor backs. Russell had to go for one of his check ups and I made my usual call with my doctor in North Bridgton.

Peggy, Russell, and I, all went to West Paris Grange on Thursday night, too. The program was on Mother's Day and Memorial, also. The lecturer's have to combine programs in order to get everything in during the year.

Russell and I as well as Peggy had made a trip around to the cemeteries and picked up the boxes that Russell had made last year to hold our bouquets. One day Peggy and I got some of the bouquets done and I hope to do the rest today if possible. Got to get the decorations on the graves before Monday is possible. It makes it difficult sometimes to have the holidays on different days than they are supposed to be. I'm glad I'm not popular and have a day kept in my memory as I would wonder when the day was really supposed to be the way they are changed around. I know it makes it nice to have long weekends but it seems as though the days of Washington's birthday or any other birthdays or Memorial Day is forgotten for what it was meant to be when first decided to be remembered.

Russell and I went to get groceries on Saturday and then went to another store for seeds to plant. Our brother, Lawrence, came in and bought seed to plant, also, so guess there will be enough to do the gardens when we can get it done which we hope will be soon.

Saturday night, Peggy, Grace and Lawrence came down and we played Trionimes until about eleven. Lawrence won one game and Peggy the other.

REBEL JIMMY MERRILL takes a swing and a miss during a recent home game against Buckfield, but Telstar went on to shut out the Bucks.

Sunday, we had an invitation to go to Lewiston to help celebrate the birthdays of Courtney and Kariann. One has a birthday the 13th and the other is the 22nd but my daughter decided to have just one celebration and I think that was very wise. We watched them open the gifts and all enjoyed ice cream and cake after the gifts were opened. Kariann is only one year old so wasn't very impressed and didn't feel too good, but Courtney had a good time with her little friend Nate, who came to the party. Others had been invited but couldn't come. Present were, Nonie, Courtney, Kariann, Jane Coursey with Nathan and Kyle, Russell, Peggy, Helen Strout and myself. Wendall and Viola had come down to leave gifts for the girls in the forenoon but couldn't come to the party. All were tired and ready to come home after the ice cream and cake. I forgot to say that Trisha, who baby-sits for the girls a lot, came with gifts, also.

Went to the doctor's on yesterday for a check-up on my chest and last night, Peggy, Russell and I attended Franklin Grange at Bryant Pond. It was inspection night but not to many present. Refreshments of ice cream and cake, punch and cheese puffs and crackers were served after the meeting.

Haven't had a chance to call around the neighborhood to get any more news so will call this enough for this time. We do keep busy doing something most of the time and it seems as though one never has time enough to get all done that they intend to do. I know I can't do as much any more.

I'll go back and say our sister Laura, from East Andover called this past week and also, Myrna and husband called on Peggy. It is hard to remember all who come to visit. Ivy Bartlett was here to see Peggy but she was gone so hope they get together another time.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner Smith visited her mother at Northern Cumberland Memorial Hospital, Bridgton, on Memorial weekend. They also called on her uncle Thaxter Littlefield, East Stoneham, and visited the East Stoneham cemetery where Mrs. Smith's brother, a World War II veteran, is buried.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Calton II (Dolly Ann Pullia) of Rumford are parents of a baby girl, born May 22 in Lewiston. She has been named Samantha Jo. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Pullia of Rumford and great grandmother is Mrs. Adeline Dexter of Bath.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Wight, Mrs. Bowie, Jennifer and Christopher, were in Augusta Sunday to attend the birthday party of Catlin Brooke at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Brooke. Catlin's sister, Samantha, also attended. The cake was made and decorated by Gail Brooke. Catlin was two years old.

The subject of Pastor Hanscom's message Sunday, May 18, was "Babel to Pentecost," with scripture readings from Genesis 11:1-9. Sunday, June 1, a special service will be held for Telstar Regional High School graduates at the Newry Community Church at 9 a.m. Pastor Hanscom will be away June 8, and Matthew Wight will serve as pastor. August 4 will be Homecoming Sunday.

A reminder to members of the Ladies Circle—there will be a yard sale at Sylvia Wight's June 7 from 10 a.m. on. Donations of food and articles will be appreciated. Proceeds will be used to buy a clock for the church. The following ladies went to Oxford Lanes on May 21 to bowl: Louise Tetley, Thelma Lowery, Gil Sealey, Betsy Clark, Eleanor Davis,

Locke Mills

By LORRAINE MILLS

The Greenwood Historical Society will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 4, at the society building on Main Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall, Jr., of South Carolina are receiving congratulations on the birth of their first child, a boy, who weighed in at 7 lbs. 15 ozs., and has been named John Robert. Mrs. Daniel Cole of Locke Mills is the paternal grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Noyes, Wilton, has just returned from Louisiana where they visited her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Johnson (Elaine Mills).

Alice Roberts has been a patient in Stephens Memorial Hospital this past week with pneumonia.

John Mills visited his daughter and husband, Marcia and Jon Smith at Dryden, Monday evening while Mrs. Mills and Vivian Chase attended a meeting of Joy Fellowship at Anita Holman's, Morrison, East Dixfield.

Valerie Cole is home from college from a vacation before starting her summer job.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mills were Saturday dinner guests at the home of his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mills, in Norway.

Joe Gross, Cindy Lord and children, Troy and Kelly, spent the Memorial Day weekend camping at Aziscoos.

Members of the Tri-Town Rescue Unit and Auxiliary will be going around town with vials to put your medical information in and stickers to mark the location. It is suggested you fill out information, put it in the vial and place the vial either in your refrigerator or glove compartment of your car and place the stickers in the appropriate location. This will save valuable time in case of an emergency.

Vera Cross, Ann Troy and Charldite Cole were among those attending the Memorial services for Betty Tebbets Saturday afternoon at the Bethel Congregational Church.

Army Pvt. 1st Class Lisa E. Parent, daughter of Gail R. Parent, of Hanover, and H. Robert Parent, of Augusta, has completed a Spanish language course at the Defense Language Institute, in Monterey, Calif. She is a 1985 graduate of the University of Maine at Orono.

Bea Lowell, Rena Powers, Louise Tetley was high scorer on both the single string and three string.

Woman to talk on Brazil at West Parish Church

An opportunity to learn about the struggles of Christians in Brazil will be presented at the West Parish Congregational Church, in Bethel, this Saturday evening.

After a potluck supper, at 6 p.m., church members and others will listen to Christina Del Piero tell about her experiences during a year's stay in Brazil.

As a "peace and justice intern," Ms. Del Piero met with a number of organizations working non-violently for human rights and social justice in Rio de Janeiro and other cities in Brazil.

The public is welcome to attend—either at 6 p.m. with a dish to share, or at 6:45 for the program.

GREENSTOCK SNOWSPORTS

CARD OF THANKS

This is to express appreciation to Dr. Petrone and Dr. Doyle and to the staff and nurses at N.C.M.H. for their kindness and caring shown during my week's hospitalization; also to family and friends for their loving support. The beautiful flowers, gifts, and cheerful cards mean so much at such a time.

With sincere thanks,

Nobody Does It Better

There are a lot of different ideas about the best way to build a home satellite system. You owe it to yourself to shop around and see what is available. Examine the equipment closely and ask questions about anything that you don't understand. Keep in mind that the lowest you'll know the true cost of any system is after you've seen the end of its service life. Try to separate the facts from the promises and buy from a reputable manufacturer. Study the checkers, because only after you know something about the various solutions will you be able to make an intelligent choice between them.

Mrs. Albert Nelson Sr. attended the graduation of her daughter Sharon from the Boston University School of Social Work Monday night. A reception followed the ceremony.

The snowmobilers supper was well attended Saturday night. A good supper was reported.

We were all sorry to hear about Edith Holt's accident Sunday morning on her way home from church. Was glad to hear she wasn't hurt too badly.

Brenda Files of North Carolina has been visiting Mrs. Nellie Hatstat and family of Albany. She has also been here at her home visiting friends and relatives. She had her lawn mowed and some work done to her home while here.

The Rev. Miss Taylor is in England for a few weeks where she is studying in ministerial work.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fox and family with several others met on a camping trip over the long holiday.

Everything looks to lush and pretty after the rain. May is such a beautiful month. I have never seen the lilacs so pretty and full of odor.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brown returned May 21 after a trip to North Dakota where they spent 10 years when he taught at the university; at the home of their daughter in Downers Grove, Ill., and attended the confirmation of their granddaughter, Sarah Abbott, and visited his relatives in Buffalo, N.Y.

Stella Johnson of Beltsville, Md., arrived at the home of her mother Sarah Grover where she will spend a three week vacation from her work at a Giant Food Market.

Beth Jones has placed flowers at the memorial plaque in front of the church, a yearly tribute from the Daughters of Union Veterans of which Beth is now serving as local president and this year is acting president of the Maine Department due to the death of the sitting president, Edith Rolfe. Stoneham sent more men to serve in the Civil War than its registered voters at that time.

Hannah F. Richardson Tent #19, D.U.V., met May 21 at the K. of P. Hall with 11 members present.

Joyce Gouin served as secretary in the absence of Minerva Dudley who is now recovering at the home of her daughter in Naples after extensive tests at Northern Cumberland Memorial Hospital in Bridgton.

Many details were finalized preparatory to the Department Convention to be held at Waterville in June and a memorial service was held for deceased members.

Joyce Gouin placed flowers on the altar as the names were read by Patriotic Instructor, Estella Varney.

Plans were finalized for attending church on Sunday, May 25, with the usual reading of the honor roll names from the plaque in the church yard—later a brief service at the grave of Vesta Nelson, the Tent's deceased member of last year.

Members placed were to place flags at the cemetery Saturday, May 24, at 11 a.m.

Refreshments were served after the meeting by Eleanor Smith and Sarah Grover. Eloise Vall received the hostess prize and the mystery package went to Helen Grover.

Mrs. Floribel Haines said they saw two big moose in their field last week.

Mrs. Gordon Coffin of Norway, Mrs. Wendell Edmunds and Mrs. Wayne Moore of South Paris visited Mr. and Mrs. Chester Harrington Tuesday of last week.

Ryan Bernier went on a Scout Camporee in Livermore with Troop 565 over the weekend.

Mrs. Rose Dyer of Bethel and Mrs. Stuart Twitchell were shopping Tuesday of last week.

I've gotten the results of the x-rays that I had taken of my back on May 15. It seems that I have a fracture of my lower vertebrae so I have been taking it very easy. John and Agnes have been down and helped a lot. John got my bulbs out of the cellar; he also washed the woodwork in the kitchen. Then on Thursday and Friday he and Agnes started painting the kitchen for me. So you see I have some very nice people in my family.

Mrs. Jo Tyler took me Friday to the cemetery to put flowers on the graves.

Mrs. June Stearns has returned to her home in Rumford Corner and is getting along quite well. But she has to take it easy as I do for quite a while yet.

Mrs. Rose Dyer of Bethel and Mrs. Pat Errington of Rumford Corner were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Twitchell.

Andover East

By LAURA HUTCHINS

Although summer is not officially here yet, we seem to be getting all the things that go with it, black flies and thunder-showers.

Our bird feeders outside of the kitchen windows have been frequented by Mr. and Mrs. Goldfinch this week, as well as many chickadees and a pine siskin. A tiny hummingbird arrived on Tuesday to work the blossoms on my bleeding heart plant. Seems early for them.

Bernard and I went fishing Sunday afternoon (got some, too!) and had only been home a few minutes when the water pump started giving us a problem. We finally discovered there was a lack of power making it unable to pump up to pressure. We had lost power during the early hours Sunday morning for three hours and apparently it required further repairs in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Alanson Cummings, their daughter, Mrs. Cathryn Lovejoy, all of West Bethel, and a lady driving for them, whose name I didn't hear, were dooryard callers here on Sunday. They were returning from Oxford, having attended the Berniers 45th anniversary party and Mr. Cummings came to make inquiries about the Memorial Day services.

Mrs. Edna White would like to alert people that she is the contact person, if anyone desires to ride on the minibus. Her telephone number is 392-1366. You don't have to be a senior citizen to be eligible to ride on the bus. The service is offered at minimal charge to anyone other than senior citizens. However, it is necessary to contact Mrs. White to ensure a seat on the bus.

Mrs. Helena Goodwin traded cars over the weekend and was happy to find a smaller one. Gregory Adams of Sweden was an early morning caller here on Saturday. He returned our car, in much better shape than when we left it with him, for which I'm most grateful.

Arthur Huthins returned home from Rumford Community Hospital on Saturday. He went to the Central Maine Medical Center for further tests this week on Wednesday, for the day.

It certainly makes friends and neighbors feel good to see Howard Glover out walking again and driving his car. His daughter, Nancy Brooks, of Bethel, was here to visit him on Tuesday. I had to go to Norway on business Saturday afternoon. I returned by way of High Street (South Paris through to West Paris) to view the beautiful flowers in the greenhouse at Young's. Also stopped and visited my sisters, Viva Whitman and Peggy Blake, my brother, Russell and sister-in-law, Grace. My brother, Lawrence, was busy doing mechanic work and tinkering for his sons, so didn't get to see him. I stayed for supper with Peggy before returning home.

Sidney Jones entered Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway on May 22 for knee surgery. Mrs. Florena McEwen of Bethel arrived on Monday to spend the week with her daughter, Mrs. Lorena Simmons of Andover.

Mrs. Beatrice Dresser, Andover, collapsed on Wednesday, May 14, and was taken to the Rumford Community Hospital where she remains very ill. Her son, Douglas Reed of Enfield, Conn., has been here this week. Our thoughts and prayers are with Bea and her family.

Thomas Learned, Andover, is a patient at the Rumford Community Hospital and is expected to undergo surgery on Thursday, May 22.

John Poor has been in town this week visiting his sister, Mrs. Harvey Fisher of Andover.

Due to problems with the wiring at the Town Hall, selectmen Tuesday night accepted the bid of Don Kennedy of Roxbury to do the rewiring both upstairs and downstairs. New lights will be installed where needed. Selectmen have also contacted Mark Kendall of Bethel, who will complete the outside painting on the clock tower sometime during the month of June, as weather permits. We still are in urgent need of people to serve on the Planning Board. Anyone interested please contact the town office or one of the selectmen.

The Ladies Aid Society of the First Congregational Church of Andover met Tuesday, May 20, at the Christian Education Building. A brief business meeting as conducted by Dolly Jones, during which thank you cards were read from Elinor Bartlett, Rumford Center, and Madeline Wentzell, Andover, for Maybaskets presented to them at the last meeting. Other thank yous were conveyed on behalf of other Maybasket recipients. Members were reminded that our next meeting, June 3, will be an outing. We will meet at the CEB at 8:30 a.m. for a trip to the State of Maine Museum in Augusta. Anyone who would like to join us for this trip is most welcome. Just be at the church at the appointed time. It was voted to eat out as there are several restaurants in the immediate area.

Following the business meeting, we enjoyed a guest speaker, Ms. Jane Craig, the hospice coordinator for Androscoggin Home Health Services. Her headquarters are in Lewiston, but she trains hospice volunteers in many areas including Farmington, Rumford, and Auburn, to name a few. The hospice philosophy and concept allows the terminally ill patient the opportunity to live their remaining life at home with their family, assisted by a trained hospice volunteer. These volunteers work with family members in caring for a patient's physical, mental and spiritual needs, while allowing them to live as they desire, without life-support systems or the impersonal and lonely atmosphere of a hospital. It was very interesting and all the handouts she gave us were very informative.

There 14 members and friends present including Mr. and Mrs. William Nuppula of Owls Head, former Andover residents, who have been visiting friends here. Others present were Alice Ramey and Vera Thompson, Rumford Center; Phyllis Farrar and Dorothy Campbell, South Andover; Dolly Jones, Vivian Barlow, and Laura Hutchins, East Andover; Rev. E. Marquette Churchill, Framme Poor, Anne Fox, Geraldine Marston, and Dorothy Lang of Andover, and the guest speaker, Ms. Jane Craig.

Correction: The Citizen apologizes for the typographical errors in last week's article announcing the birth of Nigel Victor Kreiton. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kreiton, weighed 8 pounds, 14 ounces and his sisters are Nicole and Angela.

LT. GEN. JAMES D. ALGER

James D. Alger, Lieutenant General, United States Army (Retired), of Bethel, died Monday, May 19, 1986, in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Born in Brockton, Mass., March 25, 1912, he was the son of the late James Henry and Constance Dyce Alger. His early education was obtained in the schools of Bridgewater, Mass. He was the salutatorian of his graduating class in 1930 at Gould Academy. Prior to entering the United States Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., he graduated from the Swavelly School in Manassas, Va., in 1931. In 1935, he received his bachelor of science degree from West Point and was commissioned a second lieutenant of cavalry.

Prior to World War II, General Alger served with the 1st Cavalry Division at Fort Bliss, Texas, with the 26th Cavalry Regiment (Philippine Scouts) at Fort Stotsenburg in the Philippines, and with the 1st Armored Division at Fort Knox, Ky. During his service in the Philippines he married Consuelo Zobel de Ayala y Montojo of Manila, and Madrid, Spain.

In 1942 he commanded the 2nd Battalion of the 1st Armored Regiment, 1st Armored Division, which in that year moved overseas to Northern Ireland, England, and into combat in World War II in North Africa. During action in Tunisia on Feb. 15, 1943, then Lt. Col. Alger was captured by troops of Nazi Germany's Afrika Korps.

On return to the United States in May of 1945, he attended the Command and General Staff College. This was followed by assignments as a regimental commander in the Armored Training Center at Fort Knox; as liaison officer at the British Fighting Vehicle Research, Design and Proving Establishment at Chobham, England; and various tours of duty in this country including Headquarters, Continental Army Command, UN Military Staff Committee, Joint Chiefs of Staff, and in the Office of the Secretary of Defense.

During the Korean War, General Alger served as Chief of Staff of the 45th Infantry Division and later as Chief of Staff of the Korean Military Advisory Group.

Returning to the United States in 1954, he served a tour as Chief of Staff of the 4th Armored Division at Fort Hood, Texas, followed by an assignment in the Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel on the Army General Staff in Washington. He returned to Germany in May of 1957 as assistant commander of the 3rd Armored Division, being promoted to brigadier general in August of that year.

In June 1959, he moved to Headquarters, Allied Land Forces Central Europe and was assigned duties as Assistant Chief of Staff, Operations, Plans and Training. In July of 1961 General Alger returned to the United States to command the II U.S. Army Corps, headquartered at Camp Kilmer, N.J. In May of 1963 he became Assistant Deputy Chief of Staff for Military Operations, Department of the Army. General Alger assumed command of the United States Army Southern Command in the Canal Zone in July of 1964. In August of 1967 he became chairman of the Inter-American Defense Board. It was from this assignment that General Alger left the active ranks, retiring in July of 1970.

Following his retirement, General Alger was engaged in business activities in the continental United States, Hawaii and overseas. He was a member emeritus of the Gould Academy Board of Trustees, following over a quarter century as an active member of the panel. General and Mrs. Alger founded and funded the Alger Scholarship at Gould

W. ALBERT SKILLINGS

W. Albert Skillings of Skillings Road, Bethel, died Saturday evening, May 24, 1986, at the Stephens Memorial Hospital, Norway, where he had been a patient for two days.

He was born in Harvard, Mass., Oct. 19, 1886, the son of Herman A. and Grace Grover Skillings. He received his education in the Harvard and Ayer, Mass., schools. He also attended the Ayer Trade School where he studied to be a blacksmith. He married Stella York, Sept. 3, 1922. Mrs. Skillings died Feb. 15, 1979. Mr. Skillings was U.S. Army veteran of World War I. He had lived in this community since 1919, and was a blacksmith by trade. He was also a farmer, using oxen on his farm and in his logging operations. He was a member and past commander of the Bethel World War I Baracks, and a life member of the Bethel Historical Society.

He is survived by seven daughters, Mrs. Kathleen Holden and Mrs. Grace Yates, both of West Paris, Mrs. Marion Grover of Limington, Mrs. Winnifred Korhonen of Norway, Mrs. Matilda Culleton of Mechanic Falls, Mrs. Priscilla Brett of West Paris, and Mrs. Florence Komulainen of Norway; one son, William P. Skillings of Bethel; 24 grandchildren; 29 great-grandchildren; and two great-great-grandchildren. A daughter, Edna Skillings, passed away in 1936.

Funeral services are being held at two o'clock this Wednesday afternoon at Andrews Funeral Home, South Woodstock, with interment later in the Flat Road Cemetery, West Bethel.

Donations may be made in Mr. Skillings' memory to the Bethel Ambulance, c/o Emma Page, Bethel, Maine 04217.

EDWARD A. BROWN

Edward A. Brown of 1 School Street, Berlin, N.H., died unexpectedly at his home, Thursday, May 22, 1986.

Born in Bethel, Maine, March 28, 1912, he was the son of Roy and Florence (Skillings) Brown. He lived most of his life in the Berlin and Gorham areas. Prior to his 1974 retirement, Mr. Brown was employed by the Brown Company as an electrician. He was a World War II veteran and a member of the Dupont-Holmes Post of the American Legion, and the Fraternal Order of Eagles, both of Berlin.

Survivors include one daughter, Susan Brown of Ohio; one stepson, Randall Scott of New Jersey; and one sister, Mrs. Pauline Ingermie of Fitchburg, Mass. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Bryant Funeral Home, Gorham, with interment at the New City Cemetery, Berlin.

Academy for students interested in attending one of the U.S. service academies.

General Alger is survived by his wife, Consuelo.

Funeral services were held early this week at Star of the Sea Chapel, Honolulu, Hawaii. Burial was in Hawaii.

LEGIONNAIRES AND THE OXFORD HILLS JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL BAND led a traditional Memorial Day parade through West Paris Monday—first stopping at the bridge in town and then marching all the way up to the cemetery for prayers, a reading of "In Flanders Fields," and rifle volleys. Most of the residents of the town seemed to be present on the parade route.

ANDREW H. KING

Andrew H. King of West Paris died Friday morning, May 23, 1986, at the Veterans Memorial Hospital in Togus where he had been a patient for two days.

He was born at Chelsea, Mass., on Jan. 30, 1900, the son of Henry Thomas and

EVELYN H. FREEMAN

Evelyn H. Freeman, formerly of Mechanic Falls, died early Thursday morning, May 22, 1986, at her son's residence in West Paris.

Born at Mechanic Falls, July 9, 1913, she was the daughter of Cleve and Iva Stetson. She attended the schools of New Gloucester. She had been a homemaker, and for some time worked at the Hebron Sanatorium. Mrs. Freeman was a member of Excelsior Grange of Poland, and taught an arts and crafts program in the grange. She married Philip Winslow and later married Lawrence Freeman.

Survivors include her husband of Russell Park Manor of Lewiston; a son, Harrison P. Winslow of West Paris; two daughters, Mrs. Ona Black of Oxford, and Mrs. Caudine Harlow of Turner; 10 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at the Raymond Funeral Home, Mechanic Falls, with interment at Maple Grove Cemetery, Mechanic Falls.

NEWS FROM BETHEL AREAHealth Center

Believing that auto safety is a vital aspect of child health, the Bethel Area Health Center is still offering the car seat loan program.

The purpose of the program is to encourage the use of an approved car seat from the first car ride. The loan program is also an effort to help families of new infants who may be facing large doctor or hospital bills postpone the cost of a car seat until after the first nine months.

The car seat loan program is meant for infants only and loans will not exceed nine months. A $15 deposit is required at the time of the loan. A $5 refund will be made if the car seat is returned in clean and good condition within nine months—$10 within six months.

The health center is very pleased to announce the return of an old friend to the staff.

Tom Whitney, M.D., well-known pediatrician in the Norway area, and with many friends in Bethel and surrounding towns, will be returning to the center on a part-time basis starting in June.

Dr. Whitney's specialty is pediatrics, but he also has extensive experience in family practice, acute illness in adults, trauma and accidents.

Dr. Whitney, who received his medical degree from the University of Vermont, lives in Norway with his wife Allison and their three daughters. He is affiliated with Stephens Memorial Hospital, Central Maine Medical, and the Maine Medical Center.

Commencement speaker John Raskias, professor of French at Dartmouth College, told Gould graduates that effective communication is essential to success in life. One of the secrets to effective communication, he said, is spontaneity, which he demonstrated by pouring a glass of water over his head. His somewhat outlandish teaching methods have proven very effective in teaching foreign languages.

And, you can rest assured that at Lane we stand behind every Action recliner:

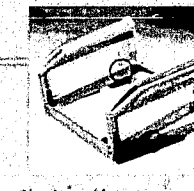

Ballad hands cut and fit fabric to each contour for a smooth, hand-fabricated look.

Buttons are reinforced in three places and heavy duty nylon thread is used in all sewing operations.

Buttons have one reinforcement to reduce chances of fast through. Buttons are tied with strong nylon cord.

Handstitched frames are double-doweled, glued and reinforced vertically and horizontally with steel bracing.

SALE The "Alpha" is one of our best recliners. It has all the quality features found in other Lane recliners but at a price that makes it an outstanding buy.
